How to use this Resource

How was this document created?

This document was developed from two sources. Many doctors on this document were found by trans-identified people who have been kind enough to let others know about their positive experiences with doctors. Other doctors listed on this document come from the Gay and Lesbian Medical Association (GLMA) list of LGBTQ+ friendly medical professionals.

The major difference between these two sources are that for the community-created list, the doctors are determined to be safe, friendly, and aware by trans-identified people. The GLMA derived doctors choose to put themselves on this the GLMA list. Therefore, the doctors who are listed from GLMA’s list have the intent to be trans friendly and aware, but this has not necessarily been confirmed by someone in the community who has used them.

It is important to notice that we are not using any standard set of questions to determine which physicians and service providers should be on this list. This is because there are already too few doctors who are willing and able to serve trans people in an affirming way. Therefore, once any trans-identified person states that they had a good experience, the doctor is added. For details about comments people have given about specific doctors or providers, look next to “Additional notes” under each provider’s name. If a physician is later determined to be unsafe, they will be removed from this listing.

How can I tell which doctors were recommended by trans identified people and which are from the GLMA list?

All doctors who were found on the GLMA website will have a GLMA symbol next to them that looks like this:  Doctors who do not have a symbol next to them were recommended by community members.

How should this booklet be used and how should it not be used?

This booklet is a supportive tool only. It should not be used as a legal document or legal aid. It should not be used as medical advice and should not be used to replace medical or health information given by a medical professional. This document is not comprehensive and does not list all the trans friendly and aware doctors in Indiana. If a doctor is listed on this document it does not mean they are completely educated on trans issues, but that they have at least one positive review from a trans identified person. This hopefully suggests that the person is willing to learn about trans issues and has enough knowledge to be respectful. However, we cannot guarantee that you will have a positive experience with each doctor. If a doctor is not listed here, it does NOT mean that they are transphobic. It only means they have not yet been recommended by a trans person. Please feel free to contact Trans Lafayette at translafayette@gmail.com to give input on doctors or add one to this list!

Decoding the letters after the doctor's name!

DDS – Doctor of Dental Medicine, indicates that the doctor is certified to work as a dentist.

DO – Doctor of Osteopathy, a degree similar to an MD which allows someone to become a practicing doctor

DPT – Doctor of Physical Therapy degree holder

FAAP – Fellowship of American Academy of Pediatrics, which specializes a doctor to work with minors and children.

FACE – Fellow of the American College of Endocrinology

FACS – Fellow of the American College of Surgeons

FNP-BC – Family Nurse Practitioner certified by the Academic Nurses Credentialing Center (ANCC)

HFA – Hospice Foundation of America, indicates the person has had training at the Hospice Foundation of America for end-of-life care and elder care.

HSPP – Health Service Provider in Psychology, all practicing psychologists are required to have completed this certification before working.

JD – Juris Doctor, the first professional degree someone can get on their way to being a lawyer or studying law.

LCSW – Licensed Clinical Social Worker, this certifies someone to work with people to better their mental health

LCAC – Licensed Clinical Addiction Counselor, this shows that someone has a background in working with people in recovery from addiction.

LFMT – Licensed Family and Marriage Therapist, this shows that someone has a background in working with people in the context of family and relationship issues.

MSN – Masters in Science of Nursing is the highest degree a person can get in nursing

NP – Nurse Practitioner is someone with a broad range of knowledge about health and health management, disease, diagnosis, and treatment. They often go through a different process of education than doctors, but focus more on health care with patients.

OCS – Orthopedic Clinical Specialist is someone who holds an advanced degree that shows that they are qualified to work on the muscular and skeletal systems in physical therapy.

PhD – Philosophy Doctor, this is a graduate degree that can be focused towards almost any field

PT – Physical Therapist is a doctor who specializes in non-surgical soft tissue recovery. They teach people exercises and stretches that help people recover from surgery or avoid surgery by strengthening ligaments and muscles.

RN – Registered Nurse has gone through the appropriate training to qualify as a nurse.

What do the specializations some doctors have actually mean?

Endocrinology: Someone who specializes in general endocrinology has had some training in both reproductive and metabolic endocrinology.

Family Medicine: Someone who specializes in family medicine sees people from all ages, genders, and backgrounds. They usually look at how the whole body and someone’s environment contribute to making them ill, instead of focusing on the one part of the body that is showing illness.

Integrative Medicine: This is another word for someone who practices “holistic” medicine, meaning they try to understand everything that is going on with your body to understand why part of your body is ill. They also take into account all the stress or issues you are dealing with in your life with friends, family, and community. Often people practicing integrative medicine will also practice some alternative or more traditional forms of medicine.

Internal Medicine: Internists are doctors with a very broad knowledge of health and medicine. This allows them to diagnose what parts of your body might be causing an illness and then they can refer you to a specialist.

Metabolic Endocrinology: Someone who specializes in metabolic endocrinology works on all the hormones that are not part of a person’s reproductive anatomy. For example, many metabolic endocrinologists focus on the hormone insulin, which is important to people living with diabetes.

OBGYN: These letters stand for “obstetrics and gynecology”. Someone who is an OBGYN has special training in certain pregnant and non-pregnant reproductive organs, such as the uterus, vagina, ovaries, fallopian tubes, labia, etc. This is not the same education or qualification that a reproductive endocrinologist gets.

Pediatrics: This is a specialty for someone who works with children and adolescents.

Primary Care: A primary care physician is not necessarily a specialty. Someone who is a primary care physician is usually the first doctor to see a patient when they are ill or having a problem. If someone has enough money and possibly health insurance, they often will have a consistent primary care doctor.

Reproductive Endocrinology: A reproductive endocrinologist is a doctor who specializes in hormones that originate from reproductive organs, like testosterone or estrogen. This is the kind of doctor you should look for if you are interested in starting hormone replacement therapy to transition. Once the reproductive endocrinologist runs tests and gives you your first hormone prescription(s) and monitors you for a little while, you can usually use a primary care doctor, internal medicine doctor, or family doctor to maintain your hormone dosage. You should work with your reproductive endocrinologist and primary care doctor to figure out how they would like to navigate this and whether your primary care doctor is comfortable maintaining your hormone dosage. Even if your primary care doctor agrees to monitor you on hormone replace therapy, you should still return to your reproductive endocrinologist once or twice a year to have some tests run and make sure you are healthy.

Additional Notes: Know that it is stated in St. Elizabeth's patient rights that people cannot be denied care on the basis of sexual orientation or sex. As determined at the federal level (by the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission) under which St. E's abides, sex non-discrimination now includes gender identity and therefore trans people and transition status. That means LGBTQ+ people cannot be denied access to health care at St. Elizabeth's because of their real or perceived identity and you are well within your rights to report discrimination, harassment, or a denial of services. Employees at St. Elizabeth's also sign a form that states they agree to treat people regardless of race, ethnicity, sex, gender, type of position, national origin, age, veteran status, or disability. Visitation rights also cannot be restricted based on above list of identity classes, which means same-sex partners have the same rights to visit their partners as mixed-sex partners.

What is Trans Lafayette?

Trans Lafayette is a support and anti-oppression group for all trans people, gender diverse people, those living with disorders of sexual development (DSD), those who identify as intersex, and their allies. This includes (but is not limited to) anyone identifying as Trans, Transgender, Transsexual, Genderqueer, Genderfluid, Gender Performing, Cross Dresser, Pangender, Omnigender, Bigender, Ambigender, Agender, Neutrois, FtM, FtX, Ft3, MtF, MtX, Mt3, as well as their partners, spouses, significant others, allies, and friends. The group is meant to be a safe space for self-expression and exploration of identities! Our motto is "All states of mind and body welcome."

Although Trans Lafayette meets in Lafayette, we offer support, information, and resources statewide. Trans Lafayette is supportive of all people and embraces the differences we have in sex, gender identity, gender expression, sexual identities, affectional identities, relationship structures, family structure, partnership status, immigration status (including undocumented status!) and legal status, national origin, ability and ability status, race, ethnicity, color, military status and veteran status, pregnancy, religion or spirituality, and educational background.

When and where does Trans Lafayette meet?

Trans Lafayette has two meetings each month that are typically held at the Pride Lafayette Community Center, 640 Main St., Lafayette, on the 1st and 3rd Sunday of each month from 4:30PM to 6:00PM. For the most updated information, check out the facebook page or webpage:

What if I am worried about being outed by coming to meetings at the Pride Lafayette Community Center?

If you are concerned with being outed, we have a back entrance that is much less visible to the public. This entrance will be open the 10-15min before meetings begin and then it will remain locked during meetings. If know you will be a few minutes late to a meeting, you can email Skye ahead of time so the door will be unlocked, or ring the doorbell button to request being let in, or call the center's phone: 765.423.7579.
